

18-20. If all these Cupids Alfonso Ferrabosco II

5

If all those Cupids now were blind, As is their wanton brother;

10

Or play should put it in their minds To shoot at one another; What pretty battle

15

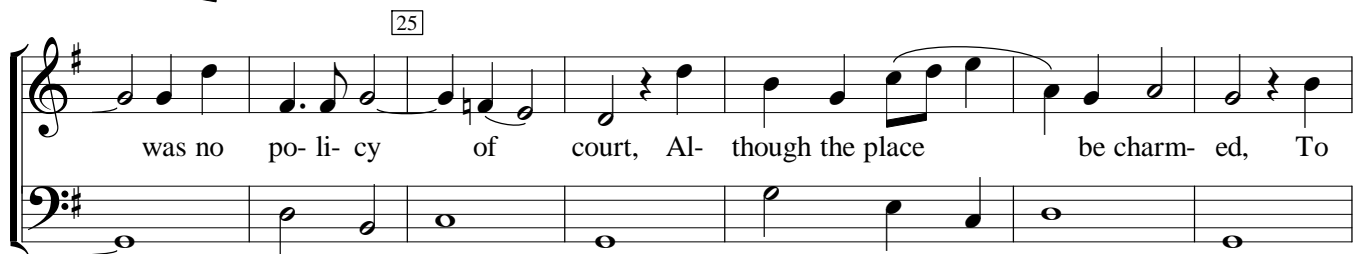

they would make, If they their objects should mistake, And each one

20

wound, and each one wound his mother. What mother. It was no policy of court, Although the place be charmed, To 30

25

let, in earnest or in sport, So many Loves in armed. For say the 35

dames should with their eyes Up on the hearts here mean surprise, were not the men, were not the men, were not the men like harm- ed? Yes,

45

50 55
were the Loves or false or stray- ing; Or Beau- ty not their beau- ty weigh-

60
ing. But here no such de- ceit is Their flames are mix'd;

65
pure, their eyes are fix'd; They do not 70

war, they do not war with dif- frent darts, But strike a

75
mu- sic of like hearts. They do not war with dif- frent

80
darts, But strike a mu- sic of like hearts.